Civilian Committee For War Activities Formed in Kelowna

Large Representative Gathering Called by City Council Decides to Elect Central Body to Guide All Civilian Programs Contemplated in Aid of War Activities—Practically Every Group in Kelowna District Sends Delegate to Meeting—Executive of Ten Elected to Carry Out Main Details of Committee—All Functions for Local Community Work Have No Part in This New Group

Kelowna Branch of Red Cross Society is Formed

FORMATION of the Kelowna and District War Activities Committee, an organization embracing practically every organization in Kelowna district was accomplished at the board of trade rooms in Kelowna on Tuesday evening by seventy representatives of those organizations. It was undoubtedly the most representative gathering ever brought together in this district and was only brought about by the apparent district-wide thought that there should be a definite coordination of effort towards civilian assistance in the war emergency.

Called by the city council of Kelowna the meeting agreed that this new organization should be a working group to act as clearing house for all community efforts in raising funds or otherwise helping in civilian war activities.

In the words of Mayor O. L. Jones, who acted as chairman of the session, the organization will serve to prevent "chaotic character of charity and service work which resulted in the last war." Everyone was agreed as to the desirability of the organization. All campaigns to provide assistance for war activities will be authorized and will work through this central body.

It was fully explained that organizations as they exist at present will continue to function as formerly. Any endeavors which they have to undertake previously for purely local service will not come within the jurisdiction of the central body. This central group will only operate in the case

KELOWNA PUBLIC RESPONDS TO HOSPITAL APPEAL

Sum of $402.86 Collected by Taggers and Flower Sellers for the Kelowna Hospital W.A.

Realizing $402.86, the annual Kelowna Hospital Women's Auxiliary tag day, held last Saturday, September 16, was a great success, as the citizens of Kelowna and district contributed generously when approached by the dozens of taggers who assisted the W.A. in its efforts. This money will be used to supply linen for the Kelowna general hospital.

Of the total amount collected, $47 was realized from the sale of flowers. These flowers were donated by J. W. Hughes and found a ready sale because of their excellent quality. The president and members of the W.A. have expressed their gratification at this fine response, which will go a long way towards supplying the necessary linen for the new hospital. With the increase in bed accommodation at the hospital next spring, a greater supply of linen than ever before will be required.

Week Sees Very Little Change In Retail Price Commodities

Butter, Lard Increase but Most Other Staples Remain Steady

Retail prices in Kelowna have changed but little during the past week and there is but little indication that there will be any drastic changes although a slight general increase is indicated during the next four months. Butter increased one cent again this week to reach thirty-four. This is an increase of four cents since the rise started two weeks ago. There is some indication that the price of butter may remain three for a dollar this week. The tax on coffee, it has been ascertained, is applicable to green coffee and this means that the retail price will increase fifteen cents. The shipping of coffee during the routing process changes the ten per cent per pound tax on green coffee to a fifteen cent increase on the retail price. Most local grocers last week increased the price by ten cents. When the present stocks are depleted, it is probable that an additional five cents will be added.

Expect to Move More Than Four Hundred Cars of McIntosh To Domestic Markets Next Wednesday

High Quality and Color Shown by Mac Crop This Year—Packouts Show Apples Running One Size Smaller Than Last Year in First Color Picking—Could Have Shipped More Export Apples if Space Available This Week—Every Export Car Cannot Leave Canada Without Permission of Foreign Exchange Control Bd.

NEXT Wednesday, September 27, will mark the first general movement of the big McIntosh Red apples from the Okanagan for the domestic market in Canada. It is estimated at the present time that more than 400 cars of McIntosh will be shipped all over western Canada in that opening rush and every market will be able to stock supplies of this favorite variety of apple.

First small movement of McIntosh went out of the Okanagan and Kamloops district on Monday, September 18, about fifteen cars moving from Kamloops and a half dozen from the Valley. These shipments were all made to coastal points in B.C., and the earlier date was set up so that the Kamloops McIntosh could move out, as it is generally accepted that they mature at an earlier date.

WILL FORM RED SHIELD AUXILIARY

Women's Auxiliary to Salvation Army War Effort to Organize This Afternoon

A meeting to organize a local branch of the Red Shield Women's Auxiliary will be held in the Salvation Army hall today, Thursday, September 21st, at two-thirty. All women interested in contributing their efforts in civilian war activities and who are not already connected with any other service league, are invited to attend.

Constantly mobilized for the hour of need, the Army is prepared to bring to the present war emergency all its resources and powers. On the outbreak of hostilities these were at once placed at the disposal of the federal government, with the Prime Minister's acceptance, approval and grateful thanks. The Army's activities during the dark days of the last Great War were universally acknowledged. A quarter of a century later—in another hour of need—the organization, better equipped and fully experienced, stands at the salute to serve.

Late War News

PARIS—Observers here saw evidence growing of a German plan for a mass attack, possibly through Belgium. Last night a new captive balloon appeared along the whole line of the Netherlands for a distance of 100 miles north of Aachen, (Aix la Chapelle) and Nazi troops were being massed around Aachen itself, which is about 85 miles north of the present fighting zone and 75 miles northeast of Koblenz, the natural base for an attack on the present western front. A new air base has also been set up at Aachen. All night, the Germans launched local attacks on the French line with the aim of taking prisoners for questioning. In an air battle one German fighter was shot down over French lines, and a French tank attack retook a post captured by Nazis in a sudden counter attack.

LONDON—Mystery still hung over the naval battle reported heard off the eastern coast of Jutland, Germany said it knew nothing of any sea battle, but the police chief of Laeso Island, off Jutland said he saw a thin line of ships on the horizon and heard firing. Indication that it was a battle it must be a major one, came from the fact the sound of firing was heard along a seventy-mile front.

As French leaders started evacuating their nationals from the Baltic states of Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania, Finland reported sighting four torpedo boats and a dozen larger warships believed searching for a Polish torpedo boat which escaped from internment at Tallin, Estonia.

LONDON—As the Allies waited today for word of United States decision on its neutrality act, news came from Italy of a start of a new Axis peace drive from Moscow, of a decision to halt the Soviet advance through Poland and of threatened moves against Roumania by Germany. In the meantime, an unofficial report said the German liner Bremen had arrived in a British port escorted by two naval craft. The Government did not deny the report. On apparent instructions from Mussolini, the Italian press urged Brit-

Greatest Patience is Necessary Hon. Grote Stirling States As Work of Parliament is Praised

Comments Cooperation of Opposition Parties in Expediting Business of Government—King's Speech Spotted With Flashes of Oratorical Brilliance—Outlines Recruiting Problem—Confident London and Ottawa Collaborating Closely

"CANADIANS must exercise every patience at the present time," Hon. Grote Stirling told the Rotary club on Tuesday when speaking of the apparent inaction of the Canadian military forces.

"Only four years ago we were in an atmosphere of peace," he said, "and at that time it was hopeless for the militia department to ask Parliament for a larger appropriation to spend on supplies for the non-permanent forces. During the past two years the expenditure has been increased but not sufficiently and the result is that there is a decided shortage of all supplies and munitions necessary to equip a force of any size."

Mr. Stirling explained that after the last war the Canadian Militia was re-organized into seven divisions across the entire country and men were being called to service by divisions. It so happened that the division of which the B.C. Dragons is a unit has not as yet been called.

He anticipated that as supplies were available more divisions would be called. Under section 64 of the militia act which is now in force, men enlist for service in Canada or beyond.

"I am quite sure in my own mind that Ottawa and London are in close touch. I feel that Canada has asked Britain what form of cooperation British desires from Canada and I am satisfied that Britain has asked for certain naval reinforcements which Canada has been able to give and certain air force reinforcements which will be met when about two thousand Canadian pilots cross to Britain shortly. I feel that Britain has indicated that she does not wish an expeditionary force from Canada at the present time. This in part accounts for the fact that there has been no great rush to recruit men for land forces."

Mr. Stirling stated that he was confident that the government would do everything in its power to eliminate profiteering. He said that he believed that Canada had learned a lesson in the last war and many mistakes would be avoided. The government was determined to prevent profiteering and had also indicated that there would be no political patronage.

Mr. Stirling described Mr. King's speech to Parliament as "good". It was, he said, studded with bursts of eloquence, notably when the Prime Minister made a direct appeal to his Quebec followers to avoid all partisanship.

Describing the activities of the House during the special war session, the speaker described the stand taken by the various parties: the Conservatives offering every cooperation to the government, the Social Credit party was offering every cooperation but advocating the confiscation of wealth, industry and man-power; the C.C.F. offering every cooperation but expressing the opinion that activities should be confined to this country while the party leader, Mr. Woudaworth, was against all participation in the war; the small group of Quebec Liberals an advocating the defence of Canada only.

The problem is not difficult to see. The Nova Scotia crop, which is normally exported, will in all probability fail to reach Britain this year. To dispose of this crop the Nova Scotia growers must seek new markets and will turn naturally to Montreal and other large Quebec and Ontario cities. This, in turn, will disrupt the Ontario and Quebec growers who have somewhere around half a million boxes, which are normally exported, to dispose of in their own markets in addition to their regular domestic sales.

It requires no great imagination to see that this condition will force the Ontario fruit to find new markets and that will drive it onto the prairies, where it will come into conflict with Okanagan fruit and which can find no other domestic market.

Nov. Scotia Crop Problem
The crux of the situation would appear to be the Nova Scotia crop. If this were out of the way it is entirely probable that the situation would be different.

ELKS CARNIVAL WILL BE BIG AFFAIR THIS YEAR

Three-Day Fun-Fest to be Held on October 5, 6 and 7—Car to be Given Away

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 5, 6 and 7 the Kelowna Elks lodge is staging its annual three-day carnival at the Scout Hall in Kelowna. This affair promises to be one of the biggest undertakings the Elks have ever promoted and many new novelties have been planned by this organization to attract huge crowds to its annual fun fest.

One of the features this year will be the drawing for a new 1940 Plymouth car, which will take place on Saturday evening. This car will be sold to the lucky ticket holder.

Proceeds from this affair will be divided between a Christmas hamper fund and the newly organized Kelowna and District War Activities Committee.

Two Applications for Naturalization Refused by Judge J. D. Swanson

Technical "Enemy Aliens" Are Turned Down by County Court Because of War Days

On the grounds that they are technical enemy aliens, during war days, two applications for naturalization by German subjects were refused by Judge J. D. Swanson, Kamloops, in County Court in Kelowna on Tuesday morning. Two more applications were approved outright and three more were approved but adjourned until county court sittings in June, 1940.

"I consider it is not the proper policy to approve the naturalization of enemy aliens during war days," declared His Honor, "while at the same time assuring the applicant that he and his wife will enjoy every liberty of action and the respect of the community, provided they conduct themselves as loyal citizens of Canada, giving no sympathy or aid in any manner to our enemies and that otherwise they will be liable to internment under the War Measures Act."

Could Not Grant

This was Judge Swanson's statement to Frederick Blietert, aged 53, of Holland, who was refused naturalization. His Honor commented that the application had been recommended by two naturalized loyal subjects and that he was satisfied with the recommendations given. But the applicant is a "German National" and he could not see his way clear now to granting approval.

Blietert was born in Brunsia, province of Hanau, in Russia but is a subject of Germany. He came to Canada in 1920. Johann Baptist Blietert, of Bolgo, B. C. Kelowna, was also refused and Judge Swanson addressed similar remarks to him. Blietert was born in Silesia, Prussia, Germany and came to Canada in 1927. He visited Germany from December, 1937, to April, 1938, and has resided in the Kelowna since then.

Don Poole Relates Interesting and Eventful Summer in Northland

Don Poole, well-known young Kelowna man and former lifeguard at the Kelowna Aquatic Club has returned from the Yukon. He returns to this city after an experience which very few young men have the opportunity of obtaining and it was an experience which few young fellows could withstand.

Don Poole

It was late in May that Don decided to leave Kelowna and go to the Yukon as a truck driver for a man who had a contract to haul supplies and mail from Mayo to mining and sawmill camps. He is back now, a lot wiser but not sorry for the wealth of experience gained.

To get to Mayo from B.C. you take a boat to Skagway, a train to Whitehorse and then fly into Mayo. That is the accepted way to arrive there and daily during the summer months planes are kept busy flying in prospectors and trappers into isolated sections of the country where they will remain until next May.

Would Not Take Job

But to get back to Don Poole's experience. He found that there was a definite reason why he had obtained the job of hauling supplies from Mayo for $175 per month and his board, which is estimated in value at about another $100. Nobody else in Mayo or that section would take the job.

When people in B.C. howl about the roads, Don will scoff at them. His round trip from Mayo to the mining and sawmill camps was approximately 110 miles and his best time for that trip was fourteen hours. Of course, it was daylight all the time so it didn't really matter what time the trip took.

Everywhere in that north country there is moss. The hills are covered with moss about four feet thick. The road was built with a great deal of trouble but the base is frozen moss and ice. So they corduroyed the road and laid what gravel they could over it. The road is about the width of the truck and the first trip Don Poole took the truck slid over the hill and he only escaped injury by jumping to safety.

The truck was hardly in the best of shape. In fact, Don cannot remember all the items which needed repairing or replacing. Some hills were so steep that the truck could not get up in low on the first attempt.

Three types of supplies were hauled by Don Poole during the summer. They were mail, groceries and liquor. He obtained a contract hauling ore for his employer which was fortunate for he otherwise might not have received his salary, he found later.

Continuous Rain

From the time that Don reached Mayo until he left there were only two days without rain. He now considers himself an authority on mud and no amount of soft gumbo which he ever tackled from now on will ever phase him. The country is glacial in aspect and there is mud everywhere for the short duration of the spring and summer.

In August winter was approaching. In fact, while Kelowna was enjoying the regatta on August 3, Don was stuck on the top of a mountain for an hour in a howling blizzard with sleet and snow abounding. He almost froze.

When he left Mayo, the snow was down to the bottom of the surrounding hills and winter was almost upon the entire country.

"There is something about that north country which gets you," declares Don Poole. "It is so big."

He explains that the population is divided into three categories. The first section is made up of old timers who went in in '98 and never will come out. They eke out a meagre existence and live on the game they can shoot, which abounds. There are bears everywhere and on one trip he chased in and out among bears who were too full of berries to get out of the road of the truck.

The second section is composed of renegades who have sought sanctuary in the northland and cannot come out because of their evil pasts. They drink to excess and make home brew and moonshine out of anything they can lay their hands onto.

Then there is the third division, men who come into the northland to make a few hundred dollars and clear out. If they don't get out in a couple of years they become fascinated with the country and never do come back to the civilization to which they had been accustomed.

Despite the tribulations, Don is thankful for his experiences and he hasn't a regret for his summer spent in the Yukon. He is a member of the B.C. Dragoons and the declaration of war was one of the reasons for his return here. In the meantime, he has returned to his former position in the K.G.E. packing house and will return to his normal activities.

More About

1 GERMANY AND RUSSIA

until his end is in sight, but I can't quite see him throwing all of Russia's weight wholeheartedly into this struggle alongside of Germany. If that were to happen, our task would be much greater, although I still believe we could successfully see it through.

Look at this little book on the coming war which was distributed officially to the entire Red Army last spring. Called "The First Blow," it was reviewed in Pravda on May 21st. I came across it while I was in War. The development of the war is pictured for the Soviet soldiers by the wishful thinkers of the Kremlin as follows: To begin with, the French Government will betray its Russian allies, accept German assurances and stay at home, thus giving Germany a free hand in the East. German planes will attack Russia, but will all be shot down. Russian planes will then completely destroy German industry. The masses will rise in Germany and France and declare Popular Front governments. Then a Soviet Europe will arise without a Russian army having left the USSR.

That doesn't sound much like "friendship" for Germany or eagerness to help her win this war. Even if Russia should share in a new partition of Poland and send Germany a few supplies that wouldn't necessarily change the basic situation. Personally I doubt very much whether Stalin wants to arm millions of his people and plunge them into war. He is too old a revolutionary not to know that this would provide almost the ideal condition for his overthrow—which his constant purgings prove that he fears so.

As for Hitler, what a price he has paid for this trump card which didn't work. He has lost Japan and Spain, and the support of all these conservatives in every country who looked upon Nazi Germany as a "Bulwark against Bolshevism." He has clarified the issue and united our forces at the psychological moment in a struggle of Western civilization against two bolshevikisms, red and brown. As the American Journalist Edgar Mowrer, who wrote "Germany Puts the Clock Back" said to me as I left Paris: "Thank Heaven, we can always count on Adolf in a pinch." Adolf will help us further before this is over.—Willson Woodside.

BLIND CORNER AT WESTBANK CAUSES ACCIDENT

Occupants of Motor Vehicles
Lucky to Escape With Severe Bruises and Shock

One of those blind corners which occur so frequently on country roads, was responsible for a collision between a truck and a light delivery early last week in Westbank.

Rob Basham, accompanied by two of his sisters, Misses Dorothy and Lois Basham, were returning home from their day's work in the packing-house, and driving at only a moderate speed, approached the corner on the lake-shore road, north of the government wharf, on the way to the Boucherie ranch. At that particular moment, Nelson Reece, driving a truck loaded with several tons of produce, also approached the corner from the opposite direction. The road is too narrow at this point to permit of two vehicles passing each other, and though one of them did crash the fence, it did not prevent the car and truck from colliding sharply.

Fortunately, no bones were broken, but the occupants of the light delivery suffered shock and severe bruises, and Rob Basham was unconscious for a few minutes. Nelson Reece escaped any injury, as did his truck, but the light delivery suffered considerable damage.

It was absolutely impossible to avoid the crash, and the fortunate thing is that the occupants of the vehicles were not more seriously injured.

Mac's are being packed in the Westbank houses at last, the first time in many years that they have been so late. Picking started last week but the real run did not start in the packing-houses until the beginning of the present week. The quality of the fruit is excellent and growers are particularly well pleased with the absence of coddlers in all orchards in the district.

Fred Johnson, of Westbank, who has been seriously ill in Vancouver general hospital during the past several weeks, was so far recovered as to be able to return home last week. He was accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. S. J. (Pat) Hewlett, who stayed with him in Vancouver during his illness. For the time being he is staying at his daughter's home.

Misses Lucy McQueen and Minnie Hewlett, of Bear Creek are in Westbank for the packing season. The former is staying with Mrs. Fosbery and the latter with Mrs. E. Lundin.

Mrs. Ewart MacNaughton and her small son Bobby, of Osoyoos, arrived in Westbank several days ago and will spend a couple of months at the home of Mrs. MacNaughton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hannam.

Mrs. A. C. Hoskins left for Chilliwack on Saturday, September 16, to spend a short holiday with her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hoskins.

An auto accident on the ferry hill on Monday afternoon resulted in Mrs. Carter, of Peachland, who was driving home from Kelowna, receiving painful injuries. Mrs. J. U. Gellatly, of Westbank, was with her at the time of the accident, and suffered bruises and shock. Apparently the setting sun was shining on the windshield of the car, making visibility rather bad, and Mrs. Carter did not see a truck coming down the hill towards her until it was too late to avoid a collision.

MISSION PARISH GUILD PREPARES FOR WINTER

Annual Card Party and Jumble Sale to be Held As Well As Series of Social Evenings

The ladies of St. Andrew's Parish Guild, Okanagan Mission, met on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. C. S. Collett to arrange plans for the coming winter. A number were unable to attend owing to the rush of work at this busy season, but it was decided to arrange the annual card party later in the fall and also a local jumble sale for winter clothing, which proved so successful last year. It was also suggested that the Guild should arrange a series of social evenings during the winter at the home of various members. Mrs. H. C. S. Collett, the president, attended the organization meeting in Kelowna called by Mayor O. L. Jones on Tuesday.

B. T. Haverfield again took first prize for jumble trip mania at the Armstrong Fair last week. He also won a third for place of Red Delicious apples and second for Hydrop crab. Mrs. J. H. Thompson took first prize for an exhibit of Wayzata strawberries.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Dunlop and Mr. and Mrs. Budget Hurdle were on a hunting trip in the Beaverdell district over the week end.

T. Wadsworth spent Tuesday to Friday of last week in Armstrong in his official capacity as president of the Interior Provincial exhibition.

Mrs. J. H. Thompson and her daughter, Patricia, spent the week end on a hunting trip down the lake as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Swick.

In connection with the sinking of H. M. S. Contango, it is of interest to note that Jack Bradley, a local resident was one of those who originally worked on her conversion from a cruise to a freight carrier in an English shipyard during the last war.

Caught recently by a Norwegian crew, a whale bore in its body a harpoon of the type used 40 years ago.

These goods are now subject to sales tax and will at some future date be increased to take care of this levy.
Raisins and soaps have shown no increase in price although it is natural to assume that some slight increase in these commodities will be unavoidable. Raisins are imported and the cost of sea traffic has increased while soaps naturally follow lard.

This latter commodity has increased sharply, the rise being about four cents per pound. This is partly due to the product being subject to the sales tax but the greater increase is due to the fact that during the past few months lard has been selling at an abnormally low price.

Despite the various increases many commodities are still selling at prices considerably below those of last year.
Flour, for instance, has been unsteady during recent weeks and has advanced in price. Forty-nine pound sacks rose from $1.55 to $1.85. However this price is still some fifteen cents below the prevailing price at this time last year.

Gloomy Outlook for Balance of Okanagan Prune and Peach Crops

Big Increase in Prune Deliveries Over Estimates and Saturation of Markets Cause Serious Situation in That Deal

One of the gloomiest weeks in the Okanagan fruit deal since the inauguration of the single selling agency, B.C.
Tree Fruits Ltd., is pictured this week following extremely rainy conditions in Alberta and a general slowing up of demands for soft fruits. Most markets have just about reached the saturation point on prunes and peach demand has slackened off considerably.

At the outset of the marketing season, the prune estimate was placed at 275,000. To date deliveries in the Okanagan have amounted to 315,000, 40,000 more packages than originally figured upon. This is the heaviest prune crop in the past five years, at least, and as it started ten days later than usual the problem of marketing such a huge volume of produce is acute.

Large quantities of prunes remain unsold, declares Dave McNair, sales manager for the agency, and most of these are in storage. Movement is slack as the markets were loaded with prunes and plums before the dump duty was applied.

There still remain between 25,000 and 30,000 packages of peaches to be sold from the Okanagan. Movement is slack now and on September 27 the dump duty will be taken off. This means that the Okanagan peaches will come into competition with cheaper American produce and a price revision downwards is inevitable.

Elberta peaches have remained constant in price since the first shipments until to date. The amount of the reduction now has not been indicated.
Competition from Ontario peaches on the Winnipeg market has curtailed distribution from the Okanagan on the Manitoba markets.

The pear deal, however, has been a much brighter one throughout and Bartlett and Boussock pears are cleaned. There is a good movement of other varieties and all Flemish face and fill have been shipped. There are still some wrapped Flemish available.

Estimates on Wealthy apples have been cut ten per cent and the crop will now only total about 300,000 boxes instead of 337,000 as originally estimated.
Movement has been fairly steady and there is every indication that there will not be an abnormal amount of Wealthy on hand when McIntosh start moving on September 27. To date about 50 per cent of the Wealthies have been sold.

Hyslop sales continue fairly steady and up to September 16 about 34 per cent of the estimates had been shipped.
McIntosh opening prices will not be named until later in the week, Mr. Mc-Nair states.

The Tree Fruits sales manager returned on Wednesday afternoon from a short business trip to the prairies and stated yesterday afternoon that generally speaking marketing conditions had been resumed in Alberta, due to much improved weather conditions. The heavy rains of last week have almost disappeared.

6 CIVILIAN COMMITTEE

of campaigns for civilian war assistance.
It had been thought at first that the new organization could be named a branch of the Red Cross Society in Canada. However, advice received from the Vancouver office stated that funds raised by a Red Cross branch must be devoted entirely to Red Cross purposes.

Other Bodies Organized Already the Salvation Army and other church organizations have Dominion and world-wide organizations set up to assist in civilian war activities. Other bodies represented in Kelowna have their plans, as well. So that the formation of the Red Cross branch in Kelowna as the main body could not fit into the plans of the district to bring all campaigns under one head.

Therefore, a Red Cross branch was formed by the gathering on Tuesday night, but not for the purpose of being termed the main governing body. It will carry on all activities of the Red Cross service but will serve as one of the units or sub-committees under the Kelowna and District War Activities Committee.

One representative from each organization represented on Tuesday evening—and there were more than sixty such organizations which sent delegates—will be a member of the governing body of the new committee.
An executive of ten was selected by the Tuesday night meeting to form the main working group for the for the main committee. The representatives of all organizations will be kept advised as to the progress of the executive and general meetings will be called from time to time when it is deemed advisable. Otherwise, the main workings of the committee will be carried on by this executive.

Elect Executive
Out of seventeen names submitted the meeting elected the following persons to act on the executive: O. St. P.
Aitkens, Mrs. R. Corner, W. M. Fraser,
Mayor O. L. Jones, J. J. Ladd, Mar-
Jok, R. P. MacLean, Dr. W. W. Mc-Pherson, P. J. Noonan and R. G.
Rutherford.

This executive will have power to add to its number and to appoint representatives from the main districts outside the city limits as ex officio members.

Appointment of the secretary was left to the executive, with the request from the general meeting that the executive consider seriously the offer of the Kelowna Board of Trade to utilize any of its facilities, including the services of its secretary, E. W. Barton.
Mr. Barton acted as secretary of the general meeting on Tuesday evening.

Various suggestions were made to the meeting as to ways of raising funds as it was generally conceded that

WORK ON NEW HOSPITAL GOES AHEAD RAPIDLY

Forty Men Employed on Big Construction Which is Now Taking Shape—Lay Cement on Second Floor

"The work has been going ahead steadily and without a hitch," declared
"Ole" Peterson, foreman of construction for the Dominion Construction Co., the firm which has the general contract for erecting the new Kelowna general hospital. "We haven't had a bit of trouble and all the local men are doing their work well," he continued.

And from the progress being made on this big three-storey construction it would appear from a layman's point of view that the work is progressing very rapidly. On Wednesday, the second floor concrete flooring and walls were being poured and within two weeks the laying of the third floor "slab", or floor will be commenced.

Two weeks after that the roof will be started, Mr. Peterson states.

In the meantime, the elevator is taking shape and various other portions of the big building are going ahead.

On Wednesday there were forty men employed, all local labor except the seven key men brought from the coast.
Four of these are expert carpenters used to certain intricate details of big building construction, one has charge of the hoist, another the cement mixer and the seventh is the cement finisher.

Before the end of October all the cement will have been laid, it is expected, and as soon as the floors are completed the walls will be tackled.
Every precaution is being taken to ensure that the building is as fire-proof as it is possible to make it. The cement is reinforced with steel bars placed less than a foot apart.

PRO-REC CENTRES WILL BE OPENED

Jack Lynes, Okanagan supervisor for the Pro-Rec centres has returned from Vancouver following an intensive summer training course and has announced that the Pro-Rec centres in the Okanagan will be resumed this winter despite the war conditions. Opening date is October 15.

Instructors of the provincial recreational department have offered their services as a body to the department of national defense through the minister of health, Hon. G. M. Weir.

money is the crying need of the present time. Rev. C. E. Davis suggested that the Empress Theatre might hand over the proceeds of its show one night a week. He thought all entertainments should devote at least one-fifth of the proceeds to war activities funds and that Red Cross envelopes should be placed in the churches each Sunday to raise additional funds.

Rev. McPherson created a laugh when he suggested that the sales of the liquor store on Christmas Eve should be handed over to the general fund.

N. J. Izowsky reported that the Elks had already agreed to divide proceeds from its annual carnival on October 5, 6 and 7 between its usual Christmas hampers and the funds for the general war activities committee or Red Cross branch.

Branch Was Formed
Back in 1929 a Red Cross branch was formed in Kelowna but it never functioned. A bank account was opened, W. M. Fraser informed the audience, and $9 deposited but this money was never touched. The signing officers at the bank included A. J.
Hughes, Rev. C. E. Davis and N. D.
McTavish.

It was considered by the Tuesday evening gathering that a Red Cross branch be formed here, as the Red Cross is recognized as one of the main bodies for war activities work in Canada. So the first meeting was adjournaled and the members reconvened as a body desirous of forming a Red Cross branch.

Practically everyone present consented to having their names jotted down as members of the Red Cross branch and many subscribed the necessary dollar membership on the spot.
Ten or more members are necessary to form a branch.

Capt. J. H. Hottel, who voiced considerable interest in the Red Cross movement was named as convener to obtain the charter and commence organization work and E. W. Barton was named as secretary.

The first big drive of the Red Cross Society across Canada has been numbered for November 13.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mrs. Byron McDonald announces the engagement of her youngest daughter, Ellen, to H. Borden Smith, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Smith, of Montreal. The wedding will take place early in October.

MRS. C. McMILLAN IS MOURNED BY MANY FRIENDS

Came to Kelowna in 1902—Six Sons Served in War—Three Lost Lives in Service

Her many friends in Kelowna and district were saddened on Tuesday by the passing of Catharine Melvor McMILLAN, wife of the late Daniel McMILLAN, at her home at 226 Richter Street. Mrs. McMILLAN was born at Southside Little Narrows, Cape Breton, N.S., seventy-eight years ago. Her parents were Neil and Catharine Melvor. At the age of twenty-four she married Daniel McMILLAN, and moved to Boston Mass., to reside. Three years later the couple moved to Brandon, Manitoba, where they homesteaded until 1898 when they moved to Peachland. In 1902 the family moved to Kelowna, where they have continued to reside. Her husband predeceased her in 1927.

Mrs. McMILLAN was known for her keen interest in church and community activities. She was a member of the United Church and honorary president of the local chapter of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire, which was named in memory of her son, the Jack McMILLAN Chapter. Six of Mrs. McMILLAN's sons saw active service during the last war. Three died on active service or from war injuries. John, Leonard and Neil. A fourth son, Charles, died in Vancouver in 1938.

Mrs. McMILLAN was one of the well-loved characters of the district. Her naturally cheery disposition was augmented by a keen sense of humor which served her and others well in times of stress. She was able to rise above adversities and carry on with a fortitude which amazed her friends.

Mrs. McMILLAN's family have been well and favourably known in Nova Scotia for a hundred and fifty years, having settled there about the time of the American Revolutionary War.

Three sons, Colin, of Santa Monica, Cal., Angus of Vancouver and Dan of Kelowna, and four daughters, Mrs. S. Burks, of Kelowna, Mrs. J. Robison of Vancouver, Mrs. R. Harkness of Vancouver, and Mrs. R. W. Kerfoot of Courtenay, B.C.

The funeral service will be held this (Thursday) afternoon at the United Church at two p.m. Rev. W. W. McPherson will conduct the service.

5 REMEDIES FOR APPLE

able that Ontario and Quebec could handle the output of those two provinces between them. This would leave the prairies free for Okanagan fruit, which in turn would be shut out of the Ontario and Quebec markets. Some suggest that such an exchange would be to the advantage of all concerned.

The problem then is what to do with the Nova Scotia fruit. There is some grounds for the belief that the conference has suggested to the government that the larger proportion of this crop might well be processed. It is pointed out that Nova Scotia is ideally located for processing as there would be but a short rail haul if the finished product were to be shipped to Britain. Three or four million dollars spent by the government in processing the Nova Scotia crop might be well worth while, not only from the point of view of relieving the pressure on other provinces but also from the point of view of providing a useful war food supply. It might be given to the British government as a gift from Canada in a time of stress.

While it is apparent that the B.C. export shipments will be much less this year than had been anticipated, it is also certain that at least a portion of the crop will get across. If a third succeeds in finding space, this will relieve the pressure on the other provinces. Should that condition exist, it becomes certain that the domestic market will be forced to consume more apples this year than in any year in the past. This also applies to the Ontario and Quebec markets which will find the supply greater than the demand.

While no word has been given as to what the conference suggested in this connection to the government, it is apparent that a large advertising program is the natural suggestion and it would cause little surprise if the government decided to institute an apple campaign similar to the successful fish campaign which has been conducted in recent months.

However, even an optimist would not suggest that the prairies and B.C. even with the help of an extensive advertising campaign would consume upwards of four million boxes of apples. What becomes of the remainder of the crop? Is this to be dumped? Or will the government come to the assistance of the growers, and for say, half a million boxes, if that amount is left unsold at the end of the season, subsidize the grower to cover production costs? Such an arrangement would not give the grower much profit, but it would be infinitely better than dumping the fruit. Whether or not such a suggestion was made by the conference to the government and whether or not the government would entertain the suggestion is not known. It is, however, certain that this problem of surplus was considered by the conference and those who have studied the situation can see some such setup as that made above, as the only logical one.

Relief Apples

There is also the suggestion that more apples might be used for relief purposes. In the past cars have been shipped to the prairies for this purpose but these have tended to disappear in the market. If some system of using apples for relief purposes could be worked out it would add probably a half million boxes to the domestic consumption. For instance, orders on grocery stores for apples might be given the relief recipients.

The conference ended last Wednesday night and the recommendations were passed on to the government for study. The growers, processors, exporters and merchandisers who attended disbanded on Thursday but they left a committee in Ottawa to continue to contact the government. This committee was composed of Messrs. Taurse, of Quebec; M. V. McGuire, of B.C.; Walsh, of Nova Scotia, and Laird, of Ontario. L. F. Burrows, secretary of the Canadian Horticultural Council was named as chairman of the committee.

ain and France to accept a peace based on the setting up of what they called an "authentic Poland" between enlarged Germany and extended Russia. It said Poland must renounce all ambitions to remaining a first class power and establish its boundaries on an ethnic basis. Revelation that appearance of Russia rather than German troops along the Polish-Romanian frontier has frustrated an uprising of Germans in the Bucovina section of Roumania came as that country suddenly closed its border to Polish refugees last night. Many Germans were arrested. They had planned to seize Bucovina, a part of old Austria, and deliver it to the Germans in Poland, when they reached the Roumanian line. Roumanian reports also announced execution of many high Polish officers by the Soviet army of occupation which numbered more than 100 divisions. Ukrainians who held high office under the old Warsaw government were executed as traitors.

Soviet high command in Poland decided after capture of Gdansk in northern Poland last night, to stop their advance but details of the new Russian boundary line were not given. The German threat to Roumania was banished, it said on the policy of that nation to aid Polish refugees and backed by the Soviet. Roumania was forced to close its borders.

BUDAPEST. Its citizens reduced to eating horse meat and its chief Red Cross hospital bombed, Warsaw still fought last night, apparently unaware that its troops in nearly every other sector had been defeated. A broadcast last night said Marshal Smigly-Rids

NARAMATA ROAD CREWS HOPE TO REACH CANYON

Despite Small Turnouts Leaders Believe Objective Can Still be Reached if Support is Given

On September 17th, there was again quite a small party on the road. A little progress was made on the final slope up to Horse creek but it is slow work with such a small crew. With a good turn out this could be finished and the cars taken into the Horse creek valley in one day. Most of the clubs and organizations which gave such good support in the spring are making arrangements to turn out again this fall and hopes of reaching the canyon have by no means been abandoned, says H. V. Craig.

Part of the morning was spent loading a drag line scraper on a truck. The drag line has been constructed or reconstructed by Archie Cather and presented quite a problem to load on the truck. Archie drew it down from the Jenkins Barn behind his car to the truck which had taken position on Lawrence avenue where Jack Ladd loads on his tractor.

With a little ingenuity, Archie used his car to back the machine on to the truck where it was secured with ropes together with the scraper which must have weighed well over a ton. A flat tire appeared on one of the dual wheels and it had to be removed. Harry Witt has quite a time getting the load along the Naramata Road and further delay occurred when another tire gave out.

In the end, the truck arrived with no dual wheels. The next problem was unloading which was accomplished after much pushing and sweating but the drag line and scraper are on the job and are to be used to clean out the gravel cut leading in to the Horse creek valley. It should be possible to lower this cut six to twelve feet and greatly improve the grade and the scraper will save a lot of difficult hand work.

The Okanagan Valley Highway Association is appealing to everyone to give a hand so that the canyon may be reached this fall.

On Saturday, forty-seven high school students have promised to work on the road if they can get transportation. Any person who is desirous of providing transportation should get in touch with H. V. Craig.

BILL TREADGOLD GOES TO CHILLIWACK

Bill Treadgold, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Treadgold, has received word that he is being moved to the Chilliwack branch of the Royal Bank of Canada. He leaves Kelowna on Friday for his new home. Bill has a large number of friends in this city who will be sorry to see him leave. As secretary of the Kelowna Rowing Club he has been one of the mainstays of that organization. He was also associated with the formation of the Kelowna Junior Rod & Gun Club and was a member of the Interior championship intermediate A basketball team.

CRIMINAL OFFENSE TO GROW POPPIES OR MARIJUANA

Under an amendment passed in 1938, it is now a criminal offense for anyone in Canada to grow or cultivate opium poppies or the hemp plant, commonly known as marijuana.

A case is now pending in Kelowna district police court against Jolla Singh, of Ellison, under this amendment. He is charged with growing opium poppies.

The minimum sentence under this amendment is a $200 fine and six months in jail, and no suspended sentence can be allowed if the person charged is found guilty. The same sentence applies to persons found guilty of growing or cultivating the hemp plant.

Recently, two persons residing on the Vernon road were found to be innocently growing marijuana as a hedge. These cases were reported to headquarters by the provincial police but no action was taken against the offenders as it was provided that they were making no attempt to use the marijuana plant for anything besides a hedge.

TOKIO—Japan is taking advantage of the war to try to force British and French troops out of China. Its ministers abroad have approached the German, French and British demanding that belligerents remove their armed forces from China. Observers state British will not obey on the grounds China is not Japanese.

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt is reported to have indicated to an unofficial conference he would ask Congress to completely repeal the present neutrality law rather than modify it. Repeal would enable all nations to buy arms in United States, but Chairman Key Pittman of the foreign relations committee is reported to have told the president complete nullification of the law would be impossible.

Four-Hit Pitching by Mottishaw Allows Westbank to Even Series

Blue Caps Defeat Rutland 6-4 in Second Game of Play-offs for The South Okanagan League Championship

Behind the four-hit pitching of Mottishaw, Westbank Blue Caps evened the final playoff baseball series for the South Okanagan league championship by defeating Rutland Adanacs 6 to 4 on Sunday at the Westbank diamond. Rutland won the first contest at the Kelowna park and now a third and final game is necessary to decide who will hold the Spalding-Johnston trophy for the ensuing year. This final game is billed for the Kelowna park this Sunday.

Mottishaw not only let Rutland down with only four hits but he struck out fifteen of the opposing batters. Bach went into the box to start the contest but after a disastrous sixth frame he was relieved by Henry Wostrowski. The latter hurler had developed a sore arm and his control was not up to the usual standard.

Westbank scored single runs in the first two frames but Rutland came back strong in the fourth with three tallies to go into the lead by one run. In the sixth, however, Westbank Blue Caps cinched the contest with four circuits to cinch the game. The Adanacs added another in the ninth but two attempts to sneak home from third base were nipped and the rally failed to materialize.

Rutland was without the services of Johnny Holisky, regular catcher and heavy hitter and really had a hard time to scrape a team together because of the rush of picking and packing. However, Manager Art Gray swears that he will have his squad out in full strength next Sunday, and is confident that his Adanacs will take the trophy. Clarence McKay, of Westbank, is equally sure that his Blue Caps will have a better than even chance to cop the title.

Leading clouter for the Blue Caps was Young, third sacker, with three hits, although Brown's clout was the longest hit of the day, a triple. Kitch, leadoff man for Rutland was credited with two singles to lead the Rutland clouters.

KELOWNA HUNTERS SHOOT FOUR DEER

Blue Grouse Are Hard to Locate—Plenty of Pheasants

Although the season is only a week old as yet, four deer have been shot by Kelowna hunters. On Friday, September 15, the opening day, Fred Day and Camozzi Jr. each shot bucks east of McCulloch. Over the week-end Jack Morrison bagged a buck in the Joe Rich district and Dan Hill brought down a deer near Wood's lake.

Blue grouse are being their usual wily selves and are hard to find. The dry weather has caused them to take to the more thickly covered areas where there is plenty of shade and berries. It is said and the grouse are consequently difficult to locate.

Consequently, only a few grouse were brought back to Kelowna over the week-end.

There is a more plentiful supply of pheasants in the Kelowna district than last year, reports Game Warden W. R. Maxson and when the season opens next month on October 15, hunters should be able to bag their limit.

Thinks Canadians Big Eaters

Mrs. R. Roe of Sydney, Australia, who is accompanying her husband on a business trip to the Dominion, makes the comment that Canadian women eat far more than do members of the fair sex in Kingston, Ontario. She calls the large helpings "frightful," but the adjective does not apply to the resultant appearance.

Single Point Separates 2 Teams of 12 Men Each After Day's Play—Appreciate Hospitality

MURDO MACDONALD JUNIOR WINNER

Mixed Foursomes Play Gets Underway Next Week-End—Captain H. Todd Makes Big Offer

By a single point the Kelowna golfers dropped their annual interclub golf matches at Salmon Arm last Sunday but this defeat did not dampen their enthusiasm for the hospitality shown by the Salmon Arm club. Twelve golfers made the trip north and report an enjoyable day's golf.

In the singles play, the two teams won six matches each, while in the doubles, Salmon Arm gained its edge of one point, winning by 9½ points to 8½ points.

Next Sunday marks the start of the always popular mixed foursomes, Harry Todd, captain, announces. A large entry is expected and mixed teams may post their entries at the clubhouse.

Says Harry Todd: "If you haven't a partner or are too shy to ask anybody, give me your name and I will get a partner for you."

Last Sunday morning saw the annual junior tournament being played, with five entries. Murdo Macdonald, following in the footsteps of his father, Serg. Alex Macdonald, won the cup with a card of 101, followed by Phil Russell, with 111. Dick Stewart, H. Blake and Bill Stewart were the other players involved and they finished in that order.

ADJOURN NYCHUK CASE HEARING FOR ONE WEEK

R. L. Maitland Busy in Court of Appeal and Could Not Appear in Supreme Court on Sept. 15

Owing to the inability of R. L. Maitland, K.C. to appear at the Supreme Court sittings the application of the City of Kelowna for permission to tear down or remove the Nychuk building on Bernard avenue has been adjourned for a week. Mr. Maitland has been busy in the court of appeal and was unable to take the Nychuk case on September 15, as was scheduled.

The city is requesting permission of the Supreme Court to remove this building following the decision of the spring assizes in Vernon that the Nychuks, William and Annie, must remove the building. They failed to do so within the prescribed month and thus committed a contempt of court, it is said.

Now the city, in its turn, is asking for the necessary authority. The building has been the cause of a lengthy litigation since it was started, as the city claimed that it was built without a building permit in an area which cannot allow commercial retail or wholesale stores to be built and operated, according to the zoning bylaw.

Food Prices And Profits

A statement of Safeway Policy

The forces of market disturbance, fear, and speculation, are at work. Prices for some basic commodities have already gone up. Increases in Safeway's retail prices on these items reflect the rise in wholesale cost, over which Safeway has no control.

It is a fundamental Safeway policy to earn only a small profit on each sale. Safeway pledges that during the period of war emergency it will not change this policy; and that in the future, as heretofore, it will make every effort through improved methods to reduce distribution cost—the difference between what the producer gets and the consumer pays. You will always be able to buy from Safeway at the lowest possible margins.

Consumers may assist materially in preventing unwarranted price increases by continuing their purchases on a normal scale. Hysterical buying which strips retail and wholesale stocks creates artificial scarcity, which pushes prices to abnormal levels.

Machinery exists within the government to control production, storage and release of commodities, imports, exports, quotas and prices—if it should become necessary to employ these methods to protect the economic welfare of the country.

Safeway further pledges complete cooperation with the governmental agencies and with producers in all efforts to stabilize prices; discourage profiteering; and maintain orderly facilities for food distribution.

MECCA FOR VISITORS
A few miles northeast of Montreal, in the foothills of the Laurentians, the village of Terrebonne is headquarters for the Canadian Beaver Restoration colony. The colony is a mecca for hundreds of visitors—and for natives too—particularly families that include children or nature lovers.

Here the beavers, old and young, the latter known as kits, put on a land and water show that perhaps is unequalled in wild-life exhibits. Their antics may be recorded by camera fans who enjoy the thrill of a close up view of animals.

MAYOR TELFORD ASKS SCHOOL BOARD DETAILS

Amount of Insurance Premiums Paid and Claims Collected Over Ten Years is Sought by Vancouver Mayor

Kelowna Board of School Trustees has consented to a request made by Mayor Lyle Telford, of Vancouver to supply him with information concerning the present amount of fire insurance carried on Kelowna schools, the premiums paid during the past ten years and the claims paid by all companies on the school buildings in Kelowna. The purpose of this request for information was not divulged by Mayor Telford, but he stated that the compiling of such information might prove of benefit and create a saving.

Mayor Telford's letter was read to the school board at its regular meeting on Wednesday, September 13, in the board of trade rooms.

Cancellation of the annual convention of school trustees of B.C. was announced to the trustees on Wednesday, but Chairman Dave Chapman has gone to Vancouver, where he attended a special session of the executive. Resolutions submitted for perusal of the convention will probably be handled by the executive, it is thought.

Charles Hubbard was the board's appointee to attend the Red Cross organization meeting on Tuesday, September 19.

Replace Teacher

The teachers' committee chairman, Mrs. T. Treadgold, told the board that Miss M. Rennich is under doctor's orders not to return to her duties as a member of the elementary school staff for the next year. Her place has been filled, for the duration of her illness, by Miss Helen Potter, of Vernon.

Elementary School Principal F. T. Marriage advised the board that Miss Evelyn Kenney has received her first class teachers certificate.

The board authorized purchases of an electric refrigerator and electric range for the home economics class; this purchase having been contemplated for some time.

C. W. Swordy has been appointed helper to the senior and junior high school janitor, A. C. Barton. He is on probation from September 1.

Hurt in Accident

Mrs. C. J. Smith wrote to the school board to state that her son, William, has met with an accident on the final day of school, in June, and had broken his arm. She enclosed the medical doctor's bill and stated that the board would probably have received the hospital bill by that time. Mrs. Smith also wondered what the school board could do in the way of compensation as Bill Smith had been unable to assist her pick and deliver raspberries during the summer months.

The board instructed Secretary E. W. Barton to reply that the trustees could not admit any liability but that if she wished to submit a claim for the bills incurred then it would be turned over to the insurance company to deal with.

On Friday evening the school trustees met the principals of the three schools and discussed mutual problems. The principals expressed complete satisfaction with the redecorating, renovating and building addition program carried out by the school board during the summer months.

Extremes of Temperature

Using new radio sound observation instruments, Weather Man Ernest Carson reported one day recently that while the temperature was 75 in Miami, a reading of 93 below was recorded only 11 miles away. The 11-mile distance was straight up.

Some Sections Being Surfaced But Three Rock Points Remain As Definite Hazard

Surfacing is being done in the Peachland locality at present with a crew in charge of Ralph Lane, of Vernon making a fine job of surfacing the sections north and south of town from Trepanier to Deep Creek.

Just north of Deep Creek the highway has been widened and is a beautiful piece of road. The stretch from town north to Trepanier was surfaced last year, but the immediate half mile of road with the three dangerous rock points have so far been untouched. It is reported that some work may be done on these points later, but this has been promised before and still the rock points remain, the worst piece of road in the whole Okanagan Valley and the most dangerous to travel.

At the present time, the traffic is heavy with large trucks using the highway, hauling fruit from point to point. Local drivers can tell many stories of narrow escapes on these points, and they are dreaded by every Peachland driver. The first one comes after the fine stretch of road through town, which is paved and is travelled at considerable speed in spite of the speed limit signs. To emerge from this modern road on to the primitive road around the rock point is a surprise to those who are used to good roads, and rapid checking is necessary to get around safely. Immediate action is required to alter this situation and make the highway safe for travel, Peachland residents feel.

Must Pay Dog Taxes

Delinquent dog tax owners in the municipality will be given until September 30 to pay their dog tax or action will be taken. This was decided at the regular meeting of the Peachland council held on Wednesday evening in the municipal hall. About two-thirds of the dog owners have paid their tax, but those who do not pay up in time will be prosecuted.

It was considered that with work in the district plentiful for local residents that no relief should be granted during this busy season. A discussion of light rates resulted in the decision of the council to adhere to the present method of collection. Councilors F. Kinchin and A. J. Chidley were in favor of setting the minimum at $1.65 instead of the present $1.50 with a ten per cent discount for cash. This was not considered fair to the fruit grower who could not be sure of his money coming in at regular periods and was opposed by Reeve B. F. Gummow and Councilors J. H. Wilson and E. E. Eddy.

There are 111 meters now in use, it was reported by Clerk C. C. Inglis and it was decided to purchase enough to finish metering the rest of the residences.

Councillor J. H. Wilson and the Clerk C. C. Inglis were appointed as delegates to attend the meeting at Kelowna, Tuesday, September 19 regarding civilian was activities.

Lack of Pupils

The falling off in attendance for the higher grades has constituted a problem for the school board which opened up a fourth room last year and hired a fourth teacher. But during the last year a number of pupils in the higher grades have left school for jobs so that the total attendance in the two higher rooms which are made up from grades 8 to 12 amount to less than fifteen. At present, only five pupils are in attendance in Mr. McDonald's room and 7 in Mr. Bowring's room. Unless the attendance increases greatly within the next few months it is expected that the fourth room will be closed at Christmas and a return made to the one high school room.

The garden competition planned by the agricultural committee of the Women's Institute has been an incentive to greater interest in the gardens. Three times during the summer, in June, July and August three different groups of judges, R. P. Murray and J. Smith of Pentticon; H. E. Evans and S. Wyatt, of Vernon; and Ben Hoy and W. Todd, of Kelowna, judged the gardens and the marks were totalled to get the winners. The committee has now announced the winners as follows: First Mrs. N. Evans, second, Mrs. T. Twinnine Sixth St., and third Mrs. P. N. Dorland, Beach Drive.

Mr. and Mrs. G. McMorran, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Fox and Mrs. Van Horn left on Monday, September 11 after visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Ferguson.

Mrs. D. K. Penfold of Kelowna is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Pierce.

A. J. Norman left for his home in Arthursburg on September 11 after visiting his daughter, Miss B. Norman.

Mrs. Chas. Baker returned to her home on Monday, September 11.

G. Stevenson returned to his home here recently after spending the summer at Edmonton.

Mrs. E. Switzer left last week for Wetaskawin after receiving word that her home in that city had burned down.

Mr. and Mrs. P. N. Dorland were visitors in Pentticon last week.

Mrs. T. Twinnine left on Wednesday, September 13 for Kelowna, where she joined friends to visit the Armstrongs.

Special induction services for the Rev. Wm. Davis were held on Monday evening, September 11 in the United Church with the Rev. W. W. McPherson of Kelowna taking charge of the impressive service. Following the service refreshments were served by the ladies of the church.

Mrs. T. Twinnine was hostess to the Women's Association of the United Church which met at her home on

Put A Man In Ottawa

The present is a time for extraordinary measures. Steps which ordinarily would not be considered as practical now appear to be logical and necessary.

Ordinarily it would not be considered practical for the Okanagan to maintain in Ottawa a man to continuously contact government officials. Today, however, conditions are such that such a move would appear to be judicious and necessary.

During the next three or four months, a man well-versed in Okanagan fruit and vegetables, the possibilities of the industrial plants here and the requirements of the government, if located in Ottawa, might be of considerable advantage to this valley as well as of assistance to the government war purchasing board.

For instance there are some twelve thousand tons of onions available in this district this year. What is to be done with them? It is a large crop of excellent quality. During the last war, it will be remembered, onions were at a premium and extraordinary measures and extraordinary prices were the vogue. This excellent crop is now available; if needed for war supplies it is now during the last conflict, some quick action is needed or the crop will be lost for this year and who is to say that next year's crop will compare with this year's? In addition to turning this crop into a war effort any such move would be to the advantage of the local producers.

Onions represent only one item of a long list. During the next few months the fruit industry will be desirous of contacting government officials on a score of points. It would be so much easier to clarify the points if a man who knew his business were able to thresh it out with government officials. Then, too, he might be able to make some very advantageous suggestions to the officials in Ottawa.

The cost of such a man would be a mere drop in the bucket. Spread over the production of the valley, it would be infinitesimal. The advantages reaped from one vegetable or fruit alone might more than offset the entire cost. Certain it is that the right man stationed in Ottawa could during the next few months be of great service to the producers of this entire Valley.

Exit The Holdup

Last week The Courier carried a story that the old ferry was being dismantled. When she was hauled out of the water at Okanagan Landing to be overhauled it was found that she was so badly rotted that there was no point in making the extensive repairs which would have been necessary if she were to be put in satisfactory condition.

It was, of course, not until it was found that the ferry had been used when it was not safe. That is no reflection upon the person in charge as it is understood the condition could not be ascertained until the inside of the hull was thoroughly examined.

The fact remains however that the ferry was in no condition to give the arduous service it was called upon to render during the last few months it was in service. This was an unreluctant but very potent argument in favor of a new ferry.

Last year during the discussion concerning around the question of whether a new ferry was needed, defenders of the old ferry heatedly maintained that that craft was quite capable of giving adequate service to the community. Others argued that a new ferry was essential. They argued better than they knew, the conditions of the craft revealed last week indicate that the district was fortunate in not having the service break down altogether. If the old ferry had not been replaced, this district would have been faced possibly this year with an infinitely worse situation than merely a slow service. There might not have been any service at all.

Had the condition of the hull been discovered before a serious accident occurred, the Holdup would certainly have had to be pulled out of the water for major repairs—repairs so great they are considered not worth while now—and for possibly several months there would have been no service across the lake.

There is little ground for belief that a temporary service could have been arranged. There is the painful memory of the public works department's futile efforts to arrange a satisfactory auxiliary service last fall and there is no reason to hope that this would be more easily accomplished under even more urgent necessity.

The advocates of a new ferry a year ago were wiser than they knew. The Holdup is now but a page in the rich history of the district. Her duties and responsibilities have been passed on to the Pendozi, the most important highway section in the Okanagan. It is hoped she will be able to cope with the rare ice conditions which do occur on Okanagan lake.

Buying Hysteria

The frantic rush to purchase supplies in this city and elsewhere in anticipation of higher prices is more likely to defeat itself than serve economy. An excessive demand has as much to do with mounting prices as reduced production. Stocks of commodities usually are limited to anticipated normal requirements, and if there is an unreasoned rush to buy increased prices are likely to be imposed as a means of curtailing it. The average merchant would prefer a steady business at reasonable profit to a hectic business at high profits followed by stagnation.

Prices of many commodities may be increased because of higher cost of production as well as by profiteering. But buying in a normal way will help to keep them down, while excessive buying will force them to extraordinary levels.

There is no occasion to become alarmed yet about shortage of necessities, and there may be none at any time.

A Dominion government report shows that on September 1st there were in storage in this country 55,000,000 pounds of butter; 52,500,000 pounds of cheese; nearly 8,000,000 doz. eggs and 46,000,000 pounds of meat and poultry. Moreover, our grain elevators from Atlantic to Pacific are bulging with wheat and there is a new crop of more than 400,000,000 bushels in Western Canada.

There is a surplus of sugar—millions of pounds more than Canadians can consume in the next three years. We have more than a quarter of a billion pounds on hand. We have imported sugar at the rate of 478,000,000 pounds in five months, and this, with our domestic production, is more than adequate to take care of normal domestic sales of 17,000,000 pounds a week.

The government price and trade board will have to keep the profiteers in line, but in the meantime the public should not make matters worse by headlong rush to lay in excessive supplies.

Parliament Has Done Well

The single-mindedness with which Parliament conducted the business of the extraordinary war session should have a stimulating effect on the country. The main objective was kept in view by all parties, with political criticism giving way to constructive suggestions. Opposition from a few individual members was so unimportant that recognition of the nation's willingness to observe its fullest responsibility can be called unanimous. The calmness and spirit of confidence contributing atmosphere to the session was worthy of a determined people, who we believe, continued earnestly the manner in which both House functioned.

The recent proceedings on Parliament Hill showed that parties can bury their differences and serve together when a vital issue confronts the country. They can work for the common welfare. They have done it, and can do it again.

If this attitude towards the grave problem of the day continues there ought to be no difficulty in reorganizing the Cabinet if it is found necessary either to strengthen department or permit ministers to take posts of more urgent importance at this time. There is no political in prosecuting a war. Dr. Martin has asked for an armistice on political appointments. Mr. King has stated emphatically that friendship is out of bounds as a qualification for jobs. The public will be disposed to consider any changes made as an essential part of a program having to do with the war and not with politics.

On principle the Prime Minister is right in expressing opposition to an extension of Parliament's term beyond the five years without an election. From the present outlook, then, it means that an election will be held towards the end of 1940 to give the people a chance to say what party they wish for a wartime administration, unless hostilities have ended. It is a subject which can be left in abeyance for the time being, with the hope that no party will be able to make political capital out of war activities.

Canada's job has been undertaken with an unanimity of feeling to be retained until the finish. The country has been given admirable leadership in the preliminary stage. What will count from now on is the results.

Rouge isn't enough, girls. Artificial coloring makes the early orange look sweet, but it is still sour on the inside.

Germany and Russia » » »

"How long?" everyone is asking, "is this war going to last?" That will depend in the first place on how strong Germany is, and in the second instance on whether Russia helps her or not.

I met a Pole this summer who exclaimed, in an access of exuberance: "What, the Germans? They're no fighters!" It was delightful to find such spirit but I don't think that we are likely to feel that way after the performance Germany put up last time. But IS Germany as strong today as she was in 1914? For my part I believe she is going into this war more in the condition of 1917, or in some respects 1918, than of 1914. Then, as now, she had the munitions and planes for a formidable offensive but lacked the raw materials to replace them once they were spent. Then, too, her soldiers marched into war in substitute shoes, her army was short of good officers, her people at home had ration cards for food and clothing, and automobile tires, iron fence railings, copper plumbing fixtures and rags from the attic had been requisitioned as war supplies.

Then as now Germany's factories and railways and the man-power which operate them were showing the wear and tear of years of overstrain. Germany had used up all her gold, and her investments abroad and was finding the neutral countries reluctant to sell their products except for cash. She had embarked on the desperate expedient of unrestricted submarine warfare and had managed to turn most of the world against her. In the fall of 1917 the German armies in the West were huddled behind the "unbreakable" Hindenburg Line; today they are standing on the defensive behind the "impenetrable" Siegfried Line. In 1918, as today, signs of discontent were showing among the German workers and opposition groups were active. British propaganda was being spread in Germany and Germans were beginning to ask themselves what use it was carrying on such a senseless struggle which there was no likelihood of winning.

The munitions workers and soldiers gave their last willing effort in the great Spring Offensive of 1918. When that failed they knew they were beaten and couldn't be whipped further by the insanely stubborn Ludendorff. Germans I met all through Eastern Europe this year agreed that production was already falling off in Germany and that longer hours failed to yield appreciable results. Considering all these factors, and the plain facts of Germany's dearth of iron and oil, I picture the war we have ahead of us as something like the campaign of 1918. We have to get through that—and it was a terrific campaign—but I don't think that we have any more to do than that, to beat Germany alone.

As I see Nazi Germany, it is a regime which has to hold the initiative, has to keep on the attack, has to be always winning, to endure. Hitler has set himself before his people as God Almighty. But if God doesn't prove to be Almighty and Infallible, people lose their faith in Him. And once the Germans lose the fanatic belief in Hitler which has sustained many of them so far they won't be able to hold the best fortifications for long.

I find confirmation for these ideas in the great reluctance with which Germany is accepting the war on her western frontier. Hitler and the Nazis plainly hoped right up to a few days ago that they could get away with just a "little war" in the east, that after quickly crushing the Poles they could turn to Britain and France and say: "Well Poland is finished now. We've got all we want. We don't ask anything of you and haven't made any attack on you, so what's the sense of going on with this?" We find Hitler entering the struggle almost fatalistically, saying that if Germany doesn't win he won't live to see the end. And he exhorts his Reichstag deputies: "If they tell you the sentiment in the country isn't good, pay no attention. The sentiment has got to be good. If I am willing to sacrifice everything, then the nation must be willing."

Coming to the case of Russia, the fact that she has suddenly fallen out of our side only adds a further parallel to the situation of 1917. What game is Russia up to? Will she really send large supplies to Germany, as the garrulous Goering hinted in his speech the other day? Soviet policy is a constant preoccupation in Eastern Europe and I formed this idea from what I saw and heard there this summer. The dismissal of Litvinoff in the spring marked the end of the policy of working with the Western Powers to form a "peace bloc" against the Fascists, while seeking to capture the democracies from within via the "Popular Front" method.

After Munich Stalin became deeply suspicious that the Chamberlain and Daladier governments—"Fascist" too, to him, in the Marxist idiom—were working to turn Germany eastwards against the Soviet Union, so as to rid themselves of two bugears at once. It was plausible enough reasoning for Stalin, in the circumstances. Why should he not therefore just turn the tables neatly on Mr. Chamberlain and Daladier and set Germany against them? Stalin doesn't know Western Europe himself and I have long felt that he hates it, and would enjoy the prospect of seeing it fight itself to exhaustion. Then, according to Soviet dogma, a Communist Europe will automatically rise from the ruins. So Stalin first encouraged Britain and France to commit themselves deeply to a struggle against Germany, counting on Soviet aid in the East. Then by suddenly switching sides he encouraged Hitler to go ahead with Poland, in the belief that Britain and France would now be scared off. Finally, when Britain and France delivered their ultimatum to Hitler to withdraw his troops from Poland or face a war in the West, Stalin rushed a military mission to Berlin by air, to give Hitler the necessary confidence to reject the Anglo-French demands. Stalin then had his bonfire burning beautifully. He may be willing to provide a little fuel from time to time in the way of supplies to Germany to keep the fire going properly.

Relations between the fire brigade and the council are strained following the request made by Mayor F. H. E. DeHart to Chief Samson that he hand in his resignation. Mayor DeHart charged that the chief had not kept his word as agreed he had been away from the city for several days without notifying anyone of his intention and that the fire hall is in a dirty condition. After a heated consultation, it was decided to leave the appointment of a new chief in the hands of two aldermen and two members of the fire brigade.

Peter, grand dispatch announces that the Turks have crossed the great wall and have concentrated troops on the Bulgarian frontier. According to one diplomat Russia and Austria had almost reached an agreement over the Serbian dispute when suddenly the matter became the subject of a Russian-German dispute, followed by the German ultimatum. The "Daily News" from London says that its American correspondent reports the Germans' right wing is encircled by the Allies. The London "Daily Chronicle" says the battle of the River Albion was a triumph of organization. While the battle on land was taking place in a exciting conflict between a German and English aeroplane was waged. Finally the German was wounded and fell from his machine. An Austrian ammunition cart captured recently was found to contain "explosive" bullets. Such bullets do far more damage than dum-dums. Because the Catholic German newspaper Zeitung dared to criticize the Kaiser's telegram to President Roosevelt publication has been suspended. Despatches from Russia continue to state that in the recent rout of the Austrian army 200,000 Austrians were killed and wounded and that Russia took 100,000 prisoners and 900 guns.

The Allies' position along the entire front line continues unweakened and the battle is raging furiously. By the time the Canadian overseas contingent reaches Europe it is probable that 40,000 Canadians will have crossed the Atlantic. The Germans in South Africa are said to have been surprised by an attack of the South African Mounted Rifles and were forced to surrender.

An unknown man created great excitement in Kelowna this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock when he suddenly started shooting at persons with a 30-30 rifle. He shot and killed a dog but his shots at several persons went wild. He was captured by R. A. Copeland and Mr. Dundas and handed over to the police.

r.p.m.'s column

THE BIG BEND WAS my week-end thrill. On Saturday five of us left Revelstoke and travelled over the new road almost a hundred miles until we came to a barrier beyond which we were not allowed to go. The road is practically completed but no vehicle is permitted to negotiate the entire hundred and ninety-eight miles between Revelstoke and Golden. . . . Some three hundred and forty men are still working on the western section but they are putting the final dressing of gravel on the last few miles. Wilkins, the engineer in charge, told me that in two weeks they could be completed and the road would be ready for traffic for all practical purposes. That does not mean, however, that the road will be opened for through traffic. The story around Revelstoke indicates that not until July 1st next year will the road be opened to the public. The story says that at that time the Big Bend and the Jasper-Banff roads will be opened at two huge and greatly publicized ceremonies. Whether the war will make any change in the plans remains to be seen but it is said that the Dominion will turn the Big Bend over to the province on September 24th of this year. There is a considerable body of public opinion which is not too happy about this road becoming part of the provincial highway system. These people feel that it would be kept in much better shape if it were to continue under Dominion jurisdiction. Whether the province will decide to open it up immediately or not remains to be seen but perhaps they will decide it would be a good idea to keep it blocked until the Revelstoke-Sicamous section is put in shape for travel. If this is the case the Big Bend will be completely reclaimed by nature. At that the poorest section of the hundred miles we negotiated was that section which the province now has jurisdiction over. It was the roughest and had a traffic hazard in the shape of rocks and boulders of all sizes which had slipped down the banks and rolled to the middle of the road and remained there for a more or less indefinite time. . . .

BUT WHETHER OR NOT the Big Bend is under provincial or Dominion jurisdiction, it is worth travelling over. As a matter of fact, so great is the lure that an attempt was made by an American last week. Leaving Golden he had negotiated over half the distance to Revelstoke before he came to the barrier. And there he was stopped. He had been told he could get through but the gate was closed and he was forced to drive the hundred and some odd miles back to Golden and pay $27.00 railway ferry to get his car to Revelstoke. It is true that even the engineers' cars cannot go through and there may be some basis for the argument that if one is allowed everyone must be granted the same privilege nevertheless, it seems to me that it was a bit stiff to make this visitor go back. A back might have been turned and a lot of goodwill gained. But then that is only my opinion, and I am not all wrapped up in red tape. . . .

THERE IS A STORY around Revelstoke that the province is planning to give the road a good oiling early next spring before the public is allowed to use it. If that is the intention it is a good move. It would not only save the road but would add greatly to the enjoyment of the trip for the hundreds of thousands who will travel it. If it is not oiled, I can see a great many peering through the dust-screen ahead rather than at the scenery. It would be well-worth delaying the opening to have it oiled. . . .

THE ROAD ITSELF is probably one of the best in the province. True, it as yet is only a gravel road but at the present time, for the most part, it is as smooth as the average macadam road. The grades are easy and the curves are wide and easy to negotiate. The roadway itself is wide enough to suit the most finickity. . . . One can roll along with the speedometer showing between forty and fifty without any trouble at all. . . .

BUT ONE DOES NOT want to drive that fast. To do so is to miss the scenery and that is something which should not be missed. No words of mine are adequate to describe the turbulent olive-green of the mighty Columbia as it rushes seawards; the river vistas where dark green cedar, pine and spruce edge the water which takes on a lighter, livelier hue in contrast; the roaring cascades which leap and tumble down the mountain sides in their hurry to hurl their waters in that of their fellows in the flood below; the deep gashes through the very hearts of the mountains which are the awesome gorges cut by streams which have paid their tribute to the Columbia through the centuries; the serried ranks of soldier-pines standing at attention, massed on distant mountain slopes; the desolation left by a forest fire long passed, grey, depressing spikes that once were trees denting the mountain slopes; the scores of snow-crowned mountain heads with a hundred thousand jewels twinkling in the sunlight; the score of greater, grander mountain downers adorned with sparkling pendants on their breasts; the wide, sweeping curves of the highway with a more breathtaking view around each corner.

No words of mine can do justice to that scenery and the words of any writer would be far from adequate. It must be seen to be appreciated. . . .

BUT WE FOUND MORE than scenery. We found an entrancing hour to watch a big cat scratching along one section of the highway. The big bulldozer was cleaning up the debris left at the side of the road and it was doing a good job. For an hour we watched it as it worked piles of logs, branches and small stuff over the bank, took thirty foot tree trunks three feet in diameter and unscrewed them between the standing trees to the edge of the bank or stacked them in a pile five feet high beside the road. It was fascinating and much better than watching the excavations for a big building in some city. . . .

IF YOU ARE NOT in a hurry, you may stop and watch the placer miners along a couple of the creeks. It is not a sight the average tourist sees and along this road should be encouraged for the sake of the tourist business if not for the value of the gold itself. . . . Then, if you are lucky you might persuade a cook at one of the construction camps to give you a "snack". But be warned the interpretation of the word "snack" is a wide one and be prepared to eat no much you are in agony for some time. . . .

IT WAS MY FIRST trip up Revelstoke Mountain. Some of the party thought it was seven miles to the top and we started up late in the afternoon. Perhaps it was just as well as we had the opportunity of seeing a sunset display which was about the finest I had seen in years. Flaming crimson streamers against dark and sudden cloudbanks, snow caps and glaciers far across the valley, a deep rosy red, jagged-toothed mountain peaks purple black against an orange sky. Yes perhaps it was just as well that we thought it was seven and not twenty twisting miles to the top, for returning in the dark we had ample opportunity to admire the fairyland of lights that was Revelstoke far in the black pit below. . . .

I WAS PUZZLED about the attitude of the Revelstoke people towards the Big Bend. As far as I could make out they did not seem greatly interested—excepting the odd one, of course. They did not seem to think that the road would make any great difference to them, despite the fact that one million and seventy thousand tourists were at Banff this year with over three hundred thousand more. Revelstoke seemed to me to be missing its opportunity. . . . I see it Revelstoke is going to derive benefit from every car that crosses the Big Bend. Going east next

In Canada centres will be opened for the accommodation of men in training; army huts and canteens will, as required, operate in camps; chaplains stand ready to serve the troops wherever stationed; ambulance units will be provided when needed; visitation of families and hospitals, and kindred activities will be included in the program.

The campaign will operate under the insignia of the Red Shield, everywhere familiar to military men and citizens during the days of the Great War. be shipped out of the country without necessary forms first being completed. There were no forms available here until 11 o'clock Tuesday morning and then those in charge of export had to study them thoroughly to understand the new requirements.

Must Obtain Licenses

Until fruit exporting houses can obtain a general licence, particular licences for each export shipment must be obtained. These forms, which are in quintuplet, must be signed by the appropriate collector of customs and exonerated at the port of exit before export orders are allowed to leave the country. Reason for this move is to control foreign exchange, it is stated.

It is now certain that Pacific shipments will be greatly reduced, this season and most of the Okanagan apples will go to the Old Country via the Atlantic. Only a few ships have been made available for shipping on the Pacific and others which normally operate on that ocean have been transferred to the Atlantic.

The Nazi war has also curbed communications greatly on export shipments. Whereas the Okanagan formerly cabled the Old Country the time of departure of each car from the Okanagan, when it would be leaving Canada and the ship carrying the load, besides the approximate time and place of arrival in the British Isles, this information cannot be cabled now. Any code messages have been cancelled outside of this Dominion. Now the only information allowed to leave Canada for Great Britain concerning exports of fruit is the time of departure by rail from this Valley. The sailing time of ships from Canada or their destination is information which cannot be cabled across the sea.

TWO ACCIDENTS SOUTH OF FERRY ON SAME DAY

Cashmere, Peachland and Westbank Residents Involved in Car Smashes on Monday

Two accidents occurred between Westbank and the ferry landing on the west side on Monday, September 18.

The first accident occurred about 11:30 Monday morning and involved a car driven by Capt. Paul Stoffel, of Cashmere and a truck driven by W. Lewis, of Westbank and owned by Morgan Lewis of the same centre. Both vehicles were proceeding north and the accident occurred about one and a half miles from the ferry.

According to Capt. Stoffel, he was approaching a road gang sitting by the side of the highway and was within ten feet of them when the flagman, D. McCauley, suddenly sprang out and waved his red flag.

Stoffel stopped within ten feet, he states but the Lewis truck which was approaching could not be stopped as quickly and crashed into the car's rear end, causing about $40 damage. No one was injured. Capt. Stoffel had H. A. Truswell as a passenger.

At about five o'clock, a car driven by Mrs. Harry Carter, Peachland, collided with a truck driven by Toshi Hirose, Westbank, about two miles south of the ferry landing. The vehicles were going around a corner and Mrs. Carter who was driving south, did not see the approaching truck because of the sun, she says. Although the car was badly damaged, no one was seriously injured.

Mrs. Carter and her two passengers, Mrs. J. U. Gellatly and child, of Westbank, suffered shock, cuts and bruises but otherwise were not hurt. None of the truck passengers was injured, it is reported here.

McINTOSH PICKING ATTRACTS INTEREST IN RUTLAND AREA

Picking and Packing of Big, Red Macs Gives Employment to Large Number in the Rutland District

The McIntosh Red is the centre of all community activities in Rutland this week, and is the main topic of conversation, even crowding out the war momentarily in the minds of the growers. The local branch of the Kelowna Growers Exchange got into full stride on Monday with three graders in operation, giving employment to over one hundred women. Their new cold storage building is now in use, providing an up-to-date plant to handle Rutland's very considerable share of the cooperative firm's output from the Kelowna district. Winter varieties will now be stored in Rutland instead of being hauled to Kelowna, and this will tend to give more work for Rutland people.

The local independent firm of McLean & Fitzpatrick Ltd., shipped its one hundredth car of the season on Saturday last, and is now working to capacity on the "Macs." Export seems to be moving out satisfactorily, and the prices quoted on F.O.B. sales are 5c or more in advance of last year. Growers report the Macs to be running larger on the average than last year. Fruit on younger trees has fine color, but color picking is being done on larger trees, which are slow in coloring. Codling moth damage is high in some orchards, mostly of recent origin, the worms being most active late in the season.

While the Rutland senior ball team was taking a 4-4 defeat at Westbank the local "Midget" team took the count to exactly the same score from a Kelowna team at the Rutland diamond.

Earl Hardie returned home on Monday from the Kelowna Hospital where he has undergone treatment for blood poisoning in his left foot, believed to have originated from a spider bite. He is still unable to resume his post in the store, but is making good progress.

The shoe repair business formerly operated by Emil Hegge has been taken over by J. Schmidt, of Kelowna.

lowena district ever since Application of Walter Bohren, Box 881, Kelowna was approved by Judge Swanson. He was born in Grindelwald, Canton of Berno, Switzerland and came to Canada in 1927. He expressed himself as strongly opposed to Hitlerism in all its forms, stated Judge Swanson, although his native tongue was German.

Rochus Moser, of Rutland, was also approved. He was born in Kandol, province of Odessa, Russia and was a subject of Roumania. He came to Canada in May, 1930.

Applications Adjourned

Three applications which were approved but adjourned until June, 1940, were as follows: Joseph Bill, Rutland. Born at Lausanne, Switzerland. Came to Canada in 1930.

Ernest E. Hjerpe, East Kelowna Born in Sunne, Sweden, and came to Canada in 1923.

Mathias Lina, Kelowna Born in Bolshakova, of Donna, Donat, Jugo-Slavia, and came to Canada in April, 1930.

A further application for naturalization was received from Johann Loewen, West Summerland, but he did not appear at the County Court sittings.

PEACH DUMP DUTY COMES OFF ON 27TH

Lettuce Duty Also Off on That Day and Plums Clear Today

Protective duties against lettuce and peaches entering Canada will come off on September 27.

According to F. A. Lewis, chairman of the B.C.F.G.A. tariff committee, this will not have an adverse effect so far as the fruit is concerned, but Armstrong growers of lettuce may be affected.

Straight car shipments of fall lettuce started from that centre on Tuesday, says Mr. Lewis, and it is to be hoped that competition on the prairies will be of such a character that the produce can be marketed despite the removal of protection. Sales to farther east points will probably be sought.

When the lettuce duty was applied for, a "split period" was asked, so that the fall production would secure some assistance. This could not be secured. Only a straight eighteen weeks of tariff application could be gained, in which case it comes off on September 27. Duty on plums is removed today, Thursday, September 21.
